“Do those deeds that are an excellent model and a lesson for your children. And for that it is important that you first reform yourselves. If you become righteous and virtuous, then have faith that Allah will treat your progeny in a good manner”

--The Promised Messiah (as), Malfoozat, Vol IV, p.444

“Make an effort to train the children so that they may have mutual love, unity, courage, bravery, dignity, and noble freedom. On one hand make them a human being, and on the other hand, make them a Muslim.”

--Hazrat Khalifatul Masih I (ra), Khutbat-e-Nur, p.75

“The sign of a living nation is that its youth are striving to take the place of their elders. A nation that has this quality will never die.”

--Hazrat Khalifatul Masih II(ra), Muhl-e-Rah Vol IV, p.203

“There are twelve characteristics of a true Khadim:
1) High morals, 2) Patience, 3) Kindness, 4) Modesty, 5) Service, 6) Humbleness, 7) Humility, 8) Sympathy towards Allah’s creation, 9) Self-reflection, 10) Making an honest living, 11) Truthfulness, and 12) Piety.”

--Hazrat Khalifatul Masih III (rta), Mashl-e-Rah, Vol II, pp. 246-258

“It is very essential to teach children to respect the administrative setup of the Jama’at. Never complain about a Jama’at official in front of your children even if your complaint is valid. It will harm your children.”

-- Hazrat Khalifatul Masih IV (rta), Friday Sermon, Feb 10, 1989

“Keep in mind that for the moral training of children, you should not say lies even by way of jest. Otherwise, children will pick up the habit of telling lies in daily conversations.”

--Hazrat Khalifatul Masih V (aba), Conditions of Ba’ait and Responsibilities of an Ahmadi, p. 22
